

Choose at least _____ activities to complete each week. Check the box in the lower right corner of each calendar square as your child completes the activity. Turn in the calendar and the response journal on the last school day of June.

Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday
Mix $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dish-washing liquid and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water. Insert a straw. Blow to make bubbles! 	Estimate how many times you need to swallow to finish a glass of water. Try it and see.	Look in a dictionary. Find a word that looks interesting. Read its meaning.	Write what would be the most exciting thing about blasting off in a rocket.	Put an egg in a glass half full of water. Stir in salt. Keep adding salt until something happens.
Pretend you are leaving on a trip to Mars. List ten things you will take with you.	What do the words pledge , allegiance , republic , and indivisible mean?	Write three sentences using compound words. 	Chocolate melts when it is heated. List three foods that get softer when they are cooked.	Make a card for your dad and tell him what makes him special.
Draw what you think you will look like in five years.	Make a banner about a book you've enjoyed.	Look for your school's name in a phone book. 	Raw meat gets harder when it is cooked. List three foods that get harder when heated.	Use a yellow crayon to make a starry sky on paper. Cover the paper with black paint.
Choose a book with chapters. Read at least two chapters.	If you could redesign the U.S. flag, what changes would you make? Draw your ideas.	How old will you be in the seventh grade? In what year will that be?	What letters of the alphabet are not on the telephone?	Read a recipe to a grown-up. Help him or her prepare the food.
Make an auto-graph book for your classmates to sign. 	Read all the directions to a game. Now play the game with your family.	Write a sentence with no spaces like this: Ilikelearningnewthings . Ask someone to read it.	Read a book at the park. 	Play catch with a friend or family member. Use something besides a ball.